

Enright & Associates, Inc. Announces Agreement with College World Reporter to provide Security Advice for Colleges, Students

John Enright, President, Enright & Associates, engaged by CWR to author the publication's monthly Security Focus Column. Column will provide advice for college students on personal safety, security and emergency preparedness while attending college. Articles will also deal with the efforts of college administrators to provide a safe and secure environment on college campuses.

Barrington, RI (PRWEB) March 2, 2009 -- Enright & Associates, Inc., www.EnrightAssociates.com, and company President John Enright announced today that Mr. Enright was recently named as a regular contributor to the College World Reporter (CWR) team to author the publication's monthly Security Focus column. Mr. Enright's column is designed to provide college students with information and advice on personal safety, security and emergency preparedness while attending college. The column will also talk about security issues facing college administrators as well as their efforts to provide a safe environment for students while attending college. In acknowledging his new role for CWR, Mr. Enright stated that "Often times we forget to include the students in the process of making our campuses safe, secure and prepared to deal with developing crisis events. Students should be our strongest ally in developing effective security protocols to protect their campuses and themselves from the commission of crime and the consequences of catastrophic incidents."

Enright & Associates, Inc is a Security Management and Consulting company, located in southern New England and providing services to clients both here in the United States and abroad. The company provides a full range of security services to corporations, municipalities, school districts, colleges/universities and other organizations. Security services include risk and vulnerability assessments, security program development; threat management; security integration; major event security planning; executive protection and safety; internal corporate investigations, due diligence and fraud investigations; and fraud prevention and risk management solutions. Offerings also include a wide range of security consulting services for school districts and college campuses.

The role Enright & Associates has been asked to undertake by the College World Reporter is timely and fits well with the company's increasing business in providing security consulting services to both Colleges and K-12 educational institutions. According to Mr. Enright, "...the CWR will provide an important resource for colleges and universities to use in educating students on personal security issues while on campus as well as the importance of the role students play in taking responsibility for not only their own personal safety but also the safety and security of their peers."

According to the CWR website, the mission of CWR in part is "...to utilize every possible resource to empower college students for success. To provide them with expert advice and information from national authorities in career planning, effectively managing student loan debt, campus and personal security and much more. To introduce students to leaders, mentors and positive role models. To provide tools and other resources that help students master difficult skills to succeed in the classroom and later in life. In essence, our mission is to encourage, inspire, inform and empower students to succeed in all areas of life." Mr. Donell Edwards, Founder, Publisher and Editor of the CWR stated "We had been searching for someone to help empower our readers in the area of campus and personal safety. John Enright was the answer to a prayer. We could not have found someone more qualified, or with more experience. We know that our readers and the campuses we serve will benefit enormously from John's advice. We are elated that John has accepted our invitation to become a part of the CWR and the impact we hope we are making in the lives of students."

The March 2009 edition of CWR is now available at www.CWRMagOnline.com, released on, March 2, 2009 and contains Mr. Enright's first column.

Additional information on CWR, their mission and the magazine can be found on their website at www.CWRMagOnline.com. At the present time, free subscriptions to the magazine can be applied for at <http://tinyurl.com/cwrsubscribe>. For more information please contact Mr. Donell Edwards at CWROnline@DonellEdwardsEnterprises.com.

Enright added, "Our Company is pleased to have been offered this opportunity to collaborate with CWR to provide important advice on safety, security and emergency preparedness to students at a time when these critical issues are confronting our colleges and universities nationwide."

Check our website for more information on the experience and background of our team and associates as well as our company offerings.

www.EnrightAssociates.com

###

Contact Information

John Enright

Enright & Associates, Inc.

<http://www.EnrightAssociates.com>

401-289-2414

<http://www.EnrightAssociates.com/EnrightSecurityBlog.html>

401-265-2069

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.

PRWebPodcast Available

Listen to Podcast MP3 Listen to Podcast iTunes Listen to Podcast OGG